Simon Says Wiggle Waggle.

President Cleveland favors the Democratic field Republican quotes what he dictated to Col. Lamont that he "earnestly desires the success of his party in the pending elections in New York as well as elsewhere," and says that is just what was to be expected, and that he, of course, wouldn't do anything to help or hinder in a local election. This looks very much as though the Mugwamps were going to take back water again, in their devotion to their Democratic fetich. What does the Republican call such a manifesto as that which . we have quoted, if it isn't taking a hand in the New York election? The President has been quoted as bitterly opposed to Hill and his backers. All who desired to susin and viridicate the Administration were adjured to vote against Hill. This was al-

But finding that this sort of talk was likely to damage Democratic prospects, the President is appealed to to step into the breach and stop the inroad. And he does. He flatly and unequivocally endorses Hill and the party action. Not only that, but he boldly tells the Magwumps that in quoting him as having any other feeling, they have "utterly and mallelously" lied Do they resent it? Not so far as heard from. They meekly cry "peccavimus." Will they now turn to and endorse Hill

The neighborhood thou Pristove, and sixty-seventhest is one which until within the last few years was chiefly given up to the dwellers in Shantytown and the visitors, to a well-known pienic guiden, which is situated on the shore of the East River Even now when buildings of more oi less pretension are springing up un every direction ten people stray that way sive those whose business or whose place of residence ion less it ascessary for them to do so. It is in a measure due to this cause, doubth se, that nine people out of ten hving in the city would be unable to say cause, doubties, that the proper part of our living in the city would be unable to say to what purpose a long, low building occupying the block between Sixty-seveth and Sixty-seveth and Sixty-separate and the country of the building, however, with its Leshaped wings and its addly planed windows high above the ground giving it the look of a combination between a hospital and a studio building will amply repay a visit from any one interested in the welfare of the misses. It is the New York Trade School, of which advertisements amounting the beginning of a new term and adorned with the very pea and-ink sketches of the schools of which advertisements amounting the beginning of a new term and adorned with the very pea and-ink sketches of the schools at work have doubtless attracted the attention of mann travellers on the elevated roads. Although the school is at present closed for vacation, a visitor who lately in g the janging bell and gained thereby admittance and the courteous consideration of the resident suberintendent learned enough of the aims and past achievements of the place to give abundant food for reflection.

The school was stated some three of four years ago by a citizen of New York who was convinced that the opportunity of featuring a trade being defined to many young men from no fault of their own, they were reduced to, or rather had no chince to like from, the ranks of unskilled liborers. He determined, therefore, to set on foot a sin me whereby this disidvantage should be removed, but was considered from the start that in order to be of listing service the scheme must be at least self supporting. The landard the building he gave, the silvace of instinctors, materials, etc., were to be paid for by the pupils. The scheme was simple. On the payment of a small sum each month young men would be taught by practical instructors anyltrade they saw fit to choose At first the tindes were confined to two or three, but little by little the number of those seeking admittance is large and nearly every ordinary branch of trade is taught Y walk through the school revealed long, well lit work-loops, each devote to its own but not and with the results of the list.

The annot nearly all the unions, as you know is to discourage the ambitions and to reduce the number of efficient worksnets as much as possible so as to give the duffard antiotherer an equalchance with his clover beother. It is enough for their to know that a boy halfs from the frade befood and they are at once down upon him.

What classes as a rule do your pupils come from ?

"As a general rule they are the children of mechanics and workthen who cannot spare time themselves to educate their boys in their own tiade, lot else wish them to learn another. Besides these, we have special day classes which promise to be well attended, for young men from the country who are already working at their trade but lack the opportunity to master it fully in all us bianches.?

The foreman of a large up-town shop, who was usked his opinion as to the school, said. "I'do not belong to any union and in set shall; so I link I can give an unbassen opinion on the subject. It is only lately, to tell he truth, that I been me aware of the existence of this school and an first lives included to think it visionary and useless.
